EDUCATION

Ph.D. Social and Health Psychology, August 2003 Stony Brook University, Stony Brook, NY Graduate Certificate in Women's Studies, December 2001 Stony Brook University, Stony Brook, NY

B.A. Psychology and English, May 1995 Cornell University; College of Arts and Sciences; Ithaca, NY

POSTDOCTORAL TRAINING

2004-2006 Postdoctoral Fellow, Institute for Behavioral Medicine Research and the Dept. of Molecular Virology, Immunology, and Medical Genetics, The Ohio State University: NIH Training Grant in Psychoneuroimmunology, T32 AI55411, 2004

Positions

2023-present	Professor of Biobehavioral Health, The Pennsylvania State University
2024-present	Associate Director of the Center for Healthy Aging
2017-2024	Professor in Charge (PIC) of the Graduate Program, Biobehavioral Health, The Pennsylvania State University
2012-2023	Associate Professor of Biobehavioral Health, The Pennsylvania State University
2006-2012	Assistant Professor of Biobehavioral Health, The Pennsylvania State University
2004-2006	Postdoctoral Fellow, The Ohio State University Medical Center
2003-2004	Visiting Scholar, Dept. of Psychology, Stony Brook University

AFFILIATIONS

- Center for Healthy Aging, The Pennsylvania State University (2009-present)
- Child Maltreatment Solutions Network, The Pennsylvania State University (2024-present)

RESEARCH INTERESTS

I investigate the impact of psychological stress on physical health and the psychological, physiological, and behavioral mechanisms underlying stress and health connections. Drawing on perspectives from social psychology and psychoneuroimmunology, I examine the impact of such dynamics on different health-related outcomes, including inflammation and other markers of cardiovascular disease risk, cognitive performance, and physical pain. I emphasize the role of:

- emotion & affective/cognitive responses to stress (e.g., anger, rumination, meaning-making)
- environmental/situational forces (e.g., relationship dynamics, discrimination)
- individual differences (e.g., related to age, personality, and gender)

HONORS AND AWARDS, SELECTED

- Graduate Program Chair Leadership Award, Graduate School Alumni Society, Penn State University, 2023-2024
- Fellow, Academy of Behavioral Medicine Research, 2019

- Fran and Holly Soistman Faculty Development Endowment, College of Health and Human Development, Penn State University, 2016-2017
- American Psychological Association Leadership Institute for Women in Psychology (LIWP), 2016-2017
- College of Health and Human Development, Penn State University, Commencement Marshal, December 2014
- Functional MRI Visiting Fellowship, Short-Course in Functional Magnetic Resonance Imaging. MGH/HST Athinoula Martinos Center for Biomedical Imaging, Boston, October, 2014
- American Psychosomatic Society Scholar Research Award, 2006
- Psychoneuroimmunology Research Society Scholars Award, 2006
- Pittsburgh Mind-Body Center Summer Institute, Pittsburgh, 2006
- American Psychological Association, Division 38 Student Research Award, 2003
- Madeline Fusco Fellowship, Stony Brook University, 2003.
- Graduate Council Commendation to Distinguished Doctoral Students, Stony Brook University, 2003
- Award for Excellence in Teaching, Stony Brook University, Dept. of Psychology, 2003
- Dissertation Award, Stony Brook University, Dept. of Psychology, 2002

GRANTS

04/30/2027

External Grant Funding

05/02/2023 NIH R01 HL167642-01

total costs $2,863,372

National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute (NHLBI) 20% effort (30% SU) Yrs 1-4

The effects of pandemic-related stressors on change in CVD Risk: The protective role of universal prevention

Role: Pl, corresponding (Multiple Pls: Jennifer Graham-Engeland, Mark Feinberg) Impact: This project extends the Family Foundations study to include a second and third wave of in-home data collection to determine which family-related and psychosocial stressors associated with the COVID-19 pandemic are most strongly linked to increases in biological CVD risk indicators among parents and children.

04/01/2022

As part of NIH P01 AG003949-38 (Pls Buxton, Derby, Lipton)

03/31/2027

National Institute on Aging (NIA)

Renewal of the Einstein Aging Study (EAS) P01 (total P01 direct costs $24,150,895)

Project 2: Depression, inflammation, biological age, and cognitive function project direct costs $2,536,683

Role: Project Leader (PL); Multiple PLs (50/50% responsibility):

Christopher Engeland, Jennifer Graham-Engeland 25% effort Yrs 1-5

Impact: Via this renewal of the Einstein Aging Study P01, Project 2 will provide new information about the unique, cumulative, and interactive impact of depression, inflammation, and age-related biological factors on risk for cognitive decline and Alzheimer's Disease and Related Dementias (ADRD). This project will also help determine reasons underlying disparities in ADRD risk that appear to exist by race and gender (including the role of discrimination and SES).

04/14/2023 NIH R03 AG081719-01 total costs $158.159 5% effort Yrs 1-2

04/13/2025 National Institute on Aging (NIA)

The role of loneliness in cognitive decline and risk for dementia

Role: PI (original PI, Karra Harrington)

Impact: This project extends the Einstein Aging Program Project to examine how loneliness (reported via ecological momentary assessment as well as retrospectively) relates to cognitive function and decline in older adults.

NIH R03 AG081565-01 05/15/2023-

01/31/2025 National Institute on Aging (NIA) total costs $328,973 8% effort Yrs 1-2 Prospective memory in everyday life: Lapses and decline in relation to inflammatory and neurodegenerative biomarkers in older adults

Role: Consultant (original role: Co-I; PI: Erin Harrington)

Impact: This project extends the Einstein Aging Program Project to examine prospective memory lapses in association with markers of inflammation and neurodegeneration, and the moderating role of gender.

09/13/2022-National Science Foundation (NSF) 2222654 total costs $1,800,000

Future of Construction Workplace Health Monitoring

2.5% effort Yrs 1-4

Role: Co-PI (PI: Houtan Jebelli)

Impact: This project will improve construction workforce safety and health by providing workers with near-real-time information about their levels of stress and indicators of safety and well-being, to improve task-related and wellness decisions.

05/30/2024 Korean NSF (RS-2024-00348012) total international costs $120,000

Global collaborative research on establishing a Korean older adult cohort 05/30/2027

Role: Co-I (PI: Sunmi Song)

Impact: This project aims to develop a Korean older adult cohort with rich data around affect, pain, health behavior, cognitive performance, and health-risk factors, including inflammation.

07/01/2018-NIH RF1 (R01 submission) AG056487 total costs $3.781.840

03/31/2023 National Institute on Aging (NIA) 30% effort Yrs 1-5

08/20/2023

09/12/2026

NCE through Integrative biobehavioral and psychosocial risk for cognitive decline in the elderly

Role: PI (Multiple PIs [50/50% responsibility]: Christopher Engeland, Jennifer Graham-

Impact: This project builds on the Einstein Aging Study (EAS) program project to investigate the role of negative and positive affect, inflammation, and lipid profiles on cognitive aging outcomes, and the impact of cumulative lifetime stress on associations between affect and inflammation with cognition.

01/15/2018-NIH R01 HL137809 total costs $2,643,761

National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute (NHLBI) 01/14/2023

15% effort Yrs 1-5

NCE through Early psychosocial intervention and child and parent cardiovascular disease risk

12/31/2023 Role: Co-I (PI: Hannah Schreier)

> Impact: This project builds on the Family Foundations (FF) intervention, an ongoing NICHD-funded RCT, to determine effects of a perinatal coparenting-focused intervention, as well as psychosocial influences and mental health, on both child and parent inflammatory markers and other biomarkers of CVD risk.

NIH R21 AG066140 09/15/2019

total costs $439,617

09/14/2023 National Institute on Aging (NIA) 5% effort Yrs 1-2

NCE through

Sex hormones, inflammation, and cognitive decline in older men and women

05/31/2024 Role: Co-I (PI: Erik Knight)

> Impact: This project builds on the Einstein Aging Study (EAS) to determine whether sex hormones protect against cognitive decline via suppressive effects on inflammation.

09/30/2012-NIH R01 AG042595 $1.952.507

08/31/2017 National Institute on Aging (NIA) 30% effort Yrs 1-5

NCE-2019

with National Institute on Mental Health (NIMH)

Inflammatory mediators of stress and cognitive aging

Role: PI, corresponding (Multiple PIs: Jennifer Graham-Engeland & Christopher Engeland)

Impact: This project extended the Effects of Stress on Cognitive Aging, Physiology, and Emotion (ESCAPE) study to include inflammation, and provided new information about how stress, affect, and rumination related to inflammatory profiles and cognitive decline. NIH featured this project as an example of "longitudinal research with deep phenotyping" and has a RFA for investigators to use it in synergy with other such projects.

External Proposals Under Review

pending NIH R03 AG088758

total costs $160,300

NOA National Institute on Aging (NIA)

3% effort Yrs 1-2

Stress and affective mechanisms that relate to inflammation in diverse older men and women

Role: Co-I (PI: Dakota Witzel)

Impact: This project extends the Einstein Aging Program Project to examine which aspects of daily stress processes are linked with inflammatory markers, including

MIF, and the moderating role of gender.

06/12/2024 NIH K99R00

06/11/2029 NIH National Institute of Child Health and Human Development (NICHD)

Adaptation of an evidence-based transition to parenthood intervention: Enhancing financial literacy, co-management, and coparenting to reduce stress and address

family health disparities

Role: Faculty Mentor (PI: Samantha Murray-Perdue)

Internal Grants (as PI or Co-I)

12/13/2021- BBH Seed Fund

$9,962

12/12/2022 Biobehavioral Health Department (BBH)

Can more sleep improve pain responses, symptomatology, and regulation in college students?

Role: Co-I (PI: Anne-Marie Chang)

Impact: Data will provide feasibility and initial evidence of effectiveness for a novel intervention and development of a new R01 proposal in a current priority area.

08/20/2021 Funding Agency: Social Science Research Institute

$4,979

08/19/2022 Future of work initiative: Fostering health, inclusion, and productivity (HIP)

Role: Co-I (PI: Alicia Grandey)

Impact: Bi-weekly meetings are helping establish industry partnerships, research incubator space, and research opportunities for junior faculty:

https://hipworkplace.la.psu.edu/people/

04/17/2020 Funding Agency: Social Science Research Institute

$4910

04/16/2021 Work-Health Intersection at Perimenopause

Role: Co-I (PI: Alicia Grandey, Psychology)

Impact: Early papers in progress document preliminary associations and draw attention to menopause-related symptoms (and related social dynamics) as an understudied unique stressor related to health.

09/01/2018 Bridges to Translation IV Pilot Award

$50.000

08/31/2019 Clinical Translational Science Institute

Diet and stress responses in low-income rural adults under the dynamics of food insecurity

Role: Co-I (PI: Muzi Na)

Impact: Pilot data collection with low-income rural families has led to multiple papers that demonstrate feasibility and importance of assessing food insecurity at multiple times across short time scales.

04/20/2018- 08/20/2018	BBH Seed Fund Department of Biobehavioral Health (BBH) Cognitive Profiles and Metabolic Syndrome: Biobehavioral Mechanisms Explaining Increased Risk and Progression Role: Co-I (PI: Kyle Murdock) Impact: This project provided seed funding for an in-progress external project to expand biomarkers in the Einstein Aging Study.
08/16/2016- 08/15/2017	Funding Agency: Social Science Research Institute, Penn State University *Perinatal Coparenting Intervention and Cardiovascular Disease Risk *Role: Co-I (PI: Hannah Schreier) *Impact: Pilot data collection from this seed funding directly contributed to success of a funded NIH R01 proposal.
01/10/2016- 01/09/2017	Funding Agency: Social Science Research Institute, Penn State University The Body Mindfulness Project: Changing chronic maladaptive patterns in body and mind Role: Co-I (PI: Andrew Belser) Impact: This work examined possibilities toward pilot data collection related to body mindfulness as intervention, and contributed to team building and awareness helpful to other projects.

TEACHING EXPERIENCE

Graduate Instruction, Dept. of Biobehavioral Health, Penn State University

Course: Professional Development in BBH Part 1 (BBH 597, 1.5 credit hours)

Role: Course Instructor; deliver 24 lecture hours per semester Semesters: Fall 2017, 2018, 2019, 2020, 2022 (100% responsibility)

Description: Developed this course in 2017 for Biobehavioral Health (BBH), with the goal of helping orient first year graduate students to graduate school (and the BBH PhD program specifically), and to be more successful at setting and meeting their goals. Students are provided with guidance toward diverse professional development issues, including topics related to research and teaching.

Course: Professional Development in BBH Part 2 (BBH 597, 1.5 credit hours)

Role: Course Instructor; deliver 24 lecture hours per semester

Semesters: Spring 2018, 2019, 2020, 2021, 2022, 2023 (100% responsibility)

Description: Developed this course in 2018 for Biobehavioral Health (BBH), with the goal of enhancing professional development skills and success among BBH graduate students in their second year of graduate study. The course focuses on presentation skills, writing productivity, and career planning.

Course: Biobehavioral Health Systems in Health and Development: Theory and Processes

(BBH 502, 3 credit hours)

Role: Course Instructor; deliver 45 lecture hours per semester

Semesters: Fall 2023 (100% responsibility)

Description: This course focuses on basic principles, research findings, and theories related to behavioral medicine/ health psychology. Students come to each class prepared to discuss multiple readings, around which in-depth discussion and lecture revolves.

Course: Biobehavioral Health Systems in Health and Development: Theory and Processes

(BBH 501, 3 credit hours)

Role: Course Instructor; deliver 45 lecture hours per semester Semesters: Fall 2013 (50% responsibility); Fall 2016 (100% responsibility)

Description: Helped revamp this interdisciplinary graduate course in 2016 for Biobehavioral Health (BBH). This course provides an introduction to broad concepts and research methods used in BBH. Students learn through lectures as well as by reading and discussing articles covering the breadth of psychological, behavioral, and physiological systems related to health.

Course: Biobehavioral Health Intervention/Prevention Strategies (BBH 504, 3 credit hours)

Role: Course Instructor; deliver 45 lecture hours per semester

Semesters: Spring 2009 & Spring 2010 (50% responsibility); Spring 2012 (100% responsibility)

Description: This course focuses on the development, implementation, and evaluation of biobehavioral strategies to promote health and well-being.

Undergraduate Instruction, Dept. of Biobehavioral Health, Penn State University

Course: Interdisciplinary Integration in Biobehavioral Health (BBH 311, 3 credit hours)

Role: Course Instructor (100% responsibility); deliver 45 lecture hours per semester

Semesters: Fall 2006; Spring 2008; Spring 2009, Spring 2010; Spring 2011; Fall 2012; Spring 2014;

Fall 2015; Fall 2016

Enrollment: 90-160 students

Description: The primary objective of this course is to enable students to be able to review and understand scientific literature relevant to the concepts and findings of different scientific domains and integrate them into a Biobehavioral Health framework.

Course: Gender and Biobehavioral Health (BBH 315, 3 credit hours)

Role: Course Instructor (100% responsibility); deliver 45 lecture hours per semester

Semesters: Spring 2007; Spring 2008, Fall 2009; Fall 2010; Fall 2011; Fall 2012

Enrollment: typically 80-135 students

Description: The focus of this course is the interdisciplinary study of gender differences (and similarities) in health. We examine the influence of biological, behavioral, psychosocial, and sociocultural factors on gender/sex differences in health, morbidity, and mortality.

Course: Drugs and Society (BBH 143, 3 credit hours)
